Subject: NEPRA Capacity Building Training Programme in collaboration with FSR-MIT

NEPRA recently finalized an online training program for NEPRA employees to be delivered jointly by Professors from the prestigious Florence School of Regulation (FSR) and Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT). This training programme is first of its kind being delivered in Pakistan. An introductory session was held today at NEPRA tower joined by Chairman NEPRA, Mr. Tauseef H. Farooqi, Professionals from NEPRA and Professors from FSR-MIT.

2. Chairman NEPRA in his opening remarks highlighted the importance of learning from the best and envisioned to equip the NEPRA employees with the necessary skills and tools, which will ultimately put NEPRA as one of the top regulators in the world. He further envisioned that better understanding of latest regulatory practices and tools will lead to better regulations. He stressed upon the NEPRA Professionals to get the maximum out of this amazing learning opportunity from the top faculty of the world.

3. Professor Carlos Batle gave an overview of the training programme, which will be delivered to the NEPRA employees over a period of 5 to 6 months and the expected learning outcomes. He elaborated that the course will cover various topics such as historical evolution of energy systems & regulations, existing energy markets, networks, new market development, regulatory practices, various tariff structures and best future technologies such as smart grids and digitalization.
